

Honored Station

You're A Girl Worth Fighting for

This year the Honored Station will be Grand Service. It will be focusing on confidence in all that we say and do as Girls in the world today! In my Election speech, I promised that a main focus of my term would be on raising self-confidence and love of oneself. I know that when I look in the mirror often times I pick apart my flaws. I know that for many of us it is the same story. Being confident and loving ourselves helps us to bloom into leaders, helps us to be happy, helps us succeed, and helps us to develop secure and healthy personal relationship in the future.

It is difficult to designate this with a single project so I will let Grand Service be creative in her Ideas on how to make each member of Rainbow a 'girl worth fighting for'. My hope is that there will be a chance to have activities at fun events and at Leadership Camp this year that directly assists to boost self-esteem in each girl. The Honored station will also be posting beautiful stories of strong women on the NHIORG Facebook page. The advisor overseeing and assisting the Honored Station will be Miss Jennifer Messina PGWA!

I am really looking forward to seeing how much all of us grow as people, friends, and sisters!
